

Biography for Lorraine Segala

Lorraine is CEO and founder of Amazon Environmental, Inc., (www.amazonpaint.com) a paint recycling company with locations in California, Oklahoma and Minnesota. Lorraine founded Amazon in 1992. Amazon provides unique solutions for the recycling of leftover paints; including marketing high quality remanufactured paints and several products from the materials that cannot be used for remanufactured paint.

She has a bachelor of science in Chemistry and a Certificate in Hazardous Materials Management.

Prior to starting Amazon she worked for several chemical and hazardous materials management firms.

She is a member and former Board member of NAHMMA, the California Waste Association and the American Chemical Society.

Lorraine has been a participant and supporter of the Product Stewardship Institutes Paint Project since its inception. Amazon has been a member of CPSC for three years.