

Recycling Made Easy for Higher Education

No-Hassle, On-Campus Recycling for Rechargeable Batteries and Cell Phones

Rechargeable batteries power most portable electronics found on university and college campuses, like cell phones, laptops, digital cameras, camcorders and gaming devices. An on-campus battery recycling program is an important component of an overall e-waste management strategy for higher education facilities.

How Does Recycling Work?

Call2Recycle® provides all collection containers and collateral materials, and pays all shipping and recycling costs. Participants receive detailed collection reports and Certificates of Recycling. The transport and recycling of used rechargeable batteries and cell phones are in full compliance with the U.S. DOT and the Universal Waste Rule.

About Our Program

Call2Recycle is the only free rechargeable battery and cell phone collection program in North America. Since 1994, we have diverted more than 50 million pounds of rechargeable batteries from local landfills. Participation is FREE and EASY!

How Can I Join?

Call 1-877-2-RECYCLE or visit call2recycle.org today!

Benefits of Call2Recycle®

- It's Free
- Detailed Tracking & Reporting, including Certificates of Recycling
- Accessible Customer Service
- E-Stewards Qualification by the Basel Action Network (BAN)
- Full Compliance with U.S. Dept. of Transportation Regulations
- More than 50 Million Pounds of Batteries Recycled

Why Join?

There are many benefits to becoming a collection site:

- Project A Green Image - Demonstrate your school's commitment to preserving the environment.
- Decrease Ecological Impact – Universities accumulate tons of waste each day.
- Convention for Staff – All collections are conveniently performed on campus.
- Conserve Natural Resources – Reclaimed battery components can be used to make new product.
- Completely Free – Collection, shipping and recycling is completely free to your facility.
- Accessible Customer Service – Easy phone, email and web access to customer support.

